The technical drawing consists of two views of a bench:

- Side Elevation (Top): Shows the profile of the bench. It features a horizontal seat and a horizontal backrest, both shaded gray. The seat is supported by two vertical legs, each with a circular base. The distance from the "Wall to face" of the seat is indicated by a dimension line. The height of the backrest from the seat level is labeled $C1$.
- Front Elevation (Bottom): Shows the bench from the front. It consists of three sections of horizontal slats (seat, middle support, and backrest) connected by two vertical legs. The total height of the bench is labeled "Height" on the left. The width of the bench is labeled $C2$ at the bottom.
